TWO ROAD BODY COMMISSIONERS ARE APPOINTED

Cone Johnson of Tyler and R. S. Sterling of Houston Are Chosen

CONFIRMATION OF TWO MEN EXPECTED TODAY

West Texas Delegation to Ask that Man From that Section Be Named

AUSTIN, Jan. 25. (P)—R. S. Sterling, Houston capitalist and newspaper publisher, and Cone Johnson, Tyler lawyer, will be confirmed unanimously by the senate as state highway commissioners, all indications were Tuesday. Governor Dan Moody announced their appointment shortly before 3 o'clock.

Because Moody's fight on alleged irregularities of the first Ferguson highway committee played a major role in his elevation from attorney general to Texas' youngest governor, more interest has been manifested in his highway appointments than any other Wednesday a delegation of legislators from West Texas will call on Moody and ask that the third highway commissioner be from West Texas. Moody asked postponement of conference until Wednesday.

AUSTIN, Jan. 25. (P)—L. W. Kemp of Houston Tuesday "declined" the offer of Governor Dan Moody to name him on the highway commission.

"I was, of course, gratified by the confidence Governor Moody exhibited in offering me the place," Kemp said. "I declined because of two reasons: I do not care to enter politics; and I could not afford the financial sacrifice entailed by acceptance."

Kemp is representative of the asphalt sales department of the Texas Company. Early in 1925, he was secretary of the Texas Municipal and Highway Contractors' Association, but lost that post because of his determined fight on alleged irregular acts of the Frank Lanham-Joe Burkett highway commission.

Upon Moody's election, Kemp was regarded by many political observers as the logical highway commission chairman during the Moody administration. Seven of the nine members of the House investigating committee as individuals recommended his appointment to the commission. Kemp directed the committee in its inquiry into highway department acts.

RUM RUNNING AIRPLANE IS CAPTURED ON BORDER

EAGLE PASS, Tex., Jan. 25. (P)—Cooperation with Mexican officers, Sheriff Hauser of this city captured an airplane thirty miles from the border in Mexico late yesterday afternoon as it was being loaded with Mexican liquor supposedly for smuggling into the United States.

The aviator, who gave his name as W. L. Jamieson and said his residence was in San Antonio and Tulsa, was held in jail at El Paso, Texas, while the plane and liquor were confiscated by the Mexican government.

Dekes Keep Vain Vigil for Spirit of Dead Brother

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 25. (P)—Grouped about their fraternity fireside out of respect to a dead brother, members of Delta Kappa Epsilon maintained a midnight vigil here last night, but the spirit of Walter Cassels Noe, University of Wisconsin student who committed suicide did not return. Included in the circle was Robert Horton, Oakpark, Ill., who was mentioned in Noe's farewell note as the one before whom he would appear in spirit. Noe shot himself Sunday night after writing he would attempt to communicate with Horton last night and Friday night.

Again Friday night, the brothers will resume the silent vigil. Efforts to obtain a statement from Horton were unavailing.

Outsiders including several newspapermen, who attempted to sit with the fraternity group during the quiet hour were denied entrance to the house.

ARKANSAS FLOOD THREATENS TOWN

White River Levee Expected to Break at Newport; One Drowned

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 25. (P)—A special relief train on the Rock Island was ordered to Jacksonport, four miles from Newport, where a levee on the White River threatens to break and flood the town.

The train left Brinkley shortly before noon prepared to remove residents and perishable goods, it was said at the main office of the road here.

A break in the levee near Jacksonport before night was regarded as inevitable by the railroad agent at that place, it was said.

Should the levee break the agent said at least a part of the little town would be flooded.

A few small levees have broken near Newport where flood waters have caused heavy damage to farm crops and lives and live stock but no immediate danger in Newport is seen.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 25. (P)—Flooded lowlands, jammed railroad property, Brinkley shortly before noon prepared to remove residents and perishable goods, it was said at the main office of the road here.

Pocahontas, in Randolph county, Batesville in Independence county and Searcy and Judsonia, in White county were islands in the midst of expansive lakes caused by overflow. Backwaters from the Little Red River were creeping into the business section of Judsonia.

In the northwest at Bentonville Mountain Home and Fayetteville, ice and sleet hampered telephone and telegraph service, while at Springdale a boy was killed by a live wire which had been snapped by its burden of ice.

The Wire, North Fork and Buffalo rivers were believed to be falling or at a standstill today but the Black and Current rivers and the Ouachita were expected to rise further.

Ohio River Rising
CINCINNATI, Jan. 25. (P)—The Ohio river at Cincinnati continued to rise at the rate of one-tenth of a foot an hour today but W. C. Davenport, United States weather forecaster, said that a destructive flood stage would not be reached here. A crest of 59 feet will be reached sometime tomorrow or tomorrow night.

Father of Wreck Hero is Injured

WACO, Jan. 25. (P)—Tragedy today followed tragedy in the W. M. Kelley family here.

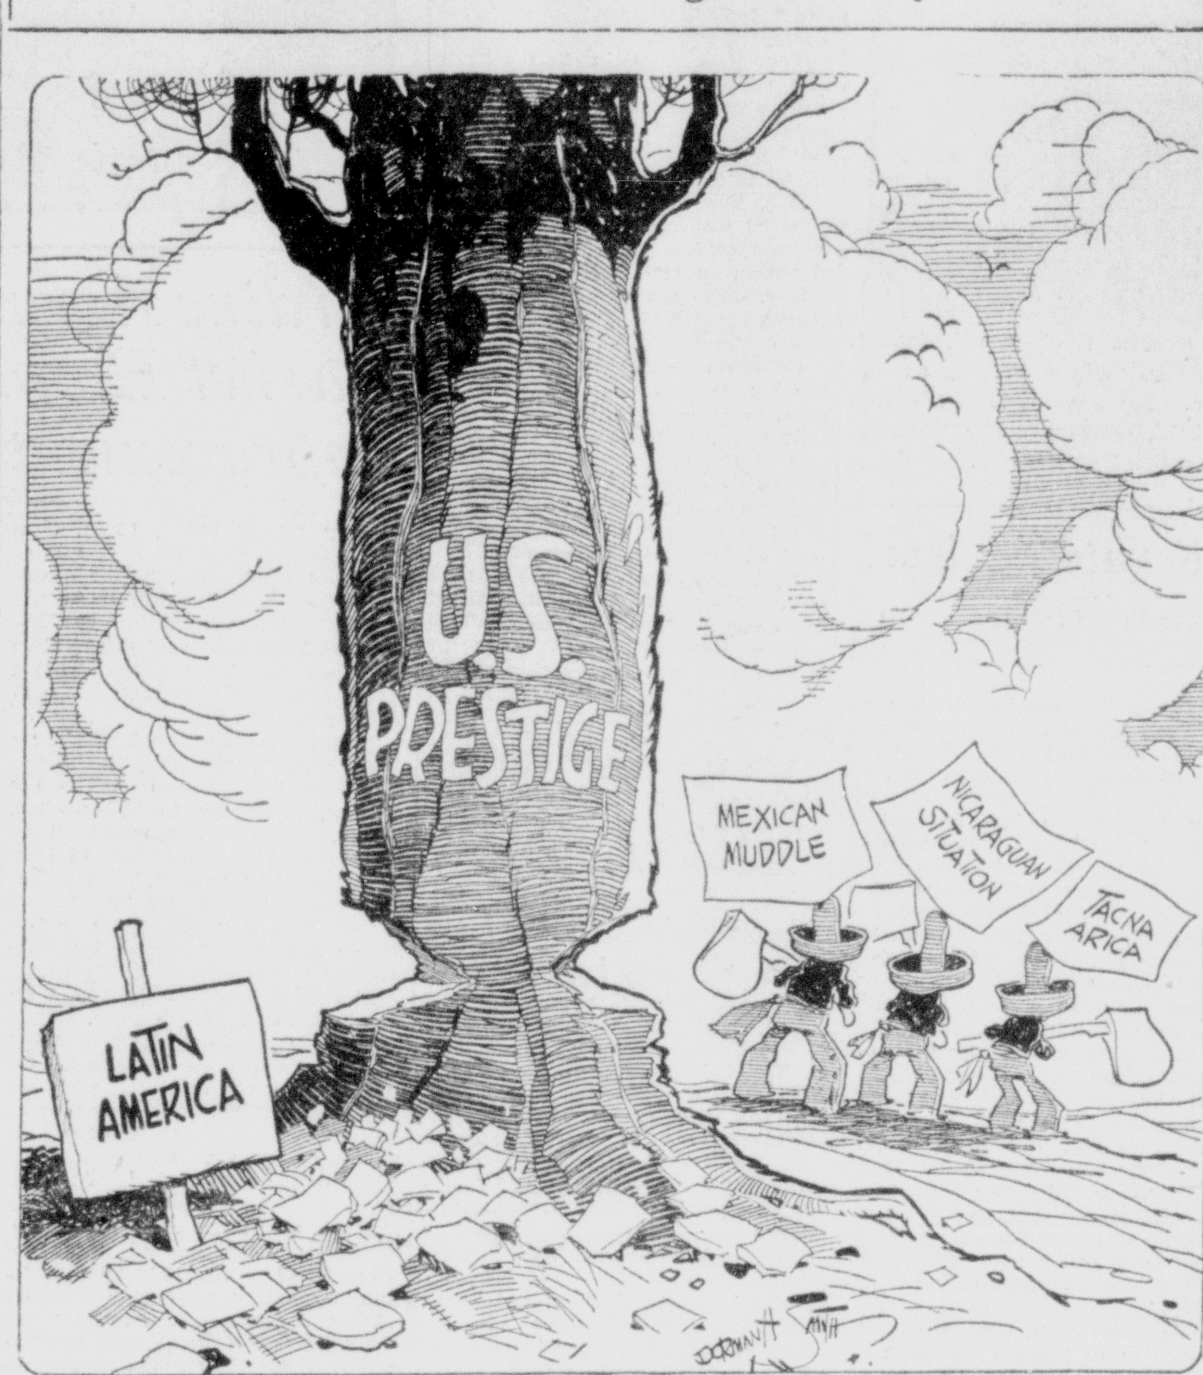

Saturday, in the Round Rock accident, which claimed the lives of ten Baylor students, Clyde "Abe" Kelley, a Baylor athletic star, lost his life.

Tuesday morning, W. M. Kelley, father of Clyde, a brother, was seriously injured in an automobile accident on the streets of Waco.

Weir Washam, one of those whose lives were miraculously spared in last Saturday's accident, was in the car with the Kelleys at the time of the accident. He was slightly hurt.

Clyde Kelley was buried Monday afternoon.

SAYS EAST TEXAS NEEDS EDUCATION AND AGRICULTURE

Walton of A. and M. Tells Regional Chamber How to Develop Section

JACKSONVILLE, Tex., Jan. 25. (P)—Delegates to the regional meeting of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce here were told today by President T. O. Walton, of A. and M. College, that the two things most essential to bring this section of the country to its full development were an extensive program of agricultural reclamation and an efficient system of education.

Inclement weather reduced the attendance somewhat, but many delegates were expected to arrive during the night.

In urging delegates to get behind the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, Dr. Walton said that there should be no discouragement if results were not fully apparent in twenty-five or more years. Patience and concerted effort are essential to results, he said.

The welcome address of the morning was given by Gus S. Blankinship, president of the First National Bank, and the response by President R. M. Kelley of Longview.

Visitors will be given a hotel banquet tonight.

FRISCO ASKS TO ISSUE LARGE BLOCK OF STOCK

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. (P)—An application for permission to issue $15,000,000 in preferred stock and $12,500,000 in common stock was prepared today by the St. Louis-San Francisco railroad for submission to the interstate commerce commission.

While it is the intention of the railroad to sell the preferred stock issue only, an issue of common is necessary because the preferred stock is convertible into common.

The funds will return to the railroad's treasury $7,000,000 spent upon additions and betterments, meet the $5,000,000 estimated cost of the road's extension to Kimbrough, Alabama, and provide a balance for use in rehabilitating the Muscle Shoals line.

Arrest Hotel Employees
NEW YORK, Jan. 25. (P)—Three employees of the Wallor-Astoria hotel were arrested today charged with the theft of $40,000 from the hotel by means of false waiter's checks.

Two women cashiers, police said, were supplied with the false waiter's checks by an auditor.

U. S. AND BRITISH VIEWS ON CHINA SHOW DIVERGENCE

White House Indicates Differences in Attitude of Nations Toward Policy

KELLOGG REPLY TO MEMO EXPECTED IN FEW DAYS

President Believes Existence of British Concession Will Affect Matter

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. (P)—Divergence of American and British views on the Chinese policy was forecast at the White House today. Although President Coolidge has made it plain the government will continue to afford all protection in its power to American lives and property in China.

The nature of the demarcation between the views was not specifically indicated nor whether the present action involved or anticipated developments in China. The president believes, however, that the existence of British concessions in China without any similar American territorial responsibilities leaves room for some difference in policy.

Further precautionary steps to safeguard American lives in China were revealed today by the withdrawal of 500 marines from mainland duty for concentration at Los Angeles and at an Eastern Maine base.

There was no indication that naval and military precautions against Chinese eventualities extended beyond that additional step or that the Washington administration contemplated sending forces to China in any way comparable with the announced British program.

An administration Chinese policy declaration will be made by Secy. Kellogg within the next few days. It will be in the form of his long-awaited rejoinder to the British Chinese memorandum.

President Coolidge expects Kellogg's statement be confined to questions raised in the British communication having to do with China's unequal treaties.

This disclosure of administration policy was made known at the White House today shortly after the House foreign affairs committee had given its approval to a resolution by Chairman Carter suggesting that the United States act independently of other powers in China. Representative Moore of Virginia, a Democratic committee member, issued a statement urging that President Coolidge carry out the purpose of the resolution without waiting for its adoption by congress.

Almost at the same time the navy announced the withdrawal of the 500 marines from their present assignment. But corps headquarters insisted the movement had nothing to do with either China or Nicaragua. It is apparent, however, that in the present disturbed situation, the Washington government does not know how large a force eventually may be required to protect American citizens within the Chinese trouble zone.

The task is difficult, because of the vast territory of China and the fact that Americans are scattered in many parts of it.

The problem has resulted in several conferences between Secretary Kellogg and navy department officials, and already plans have been made to move a marine detachment from Guam to the Philippines in order to have them near at hand for possible use in the Orient.

Justice Tammehill did not enter an official verdict in the case but said death was due to a bullet wound.

Young Dubose had worked at the field for the past year as an assistant in repairing airplanes.

MISSOURI FAVORS Anti-Evolution

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 25. (P)—The Missouri anti-evolution bill was reported to the house of representatives today by the education committee with a recommendation that it be passed. Two committee amendments, virtually rewriting the bill, were sent to the house.

The amendments take all reference to the Bible from the measure.

As amended, the bill would make it unlawful for "any teachers employed in any school in the state, supported wholly or in part, by tax, to teach any theory or hypothesis that man descended from a lower order of animals."

Penalties would be the same as in the original bill, fines of from $50 to $100 and forfeiture of the teachers' contract.

The original bill said that it would be "unlawful to teach any theory or hypothesis in regard to the origin of life on this planet that is not in harmony with the divine account of creation as set forth in the First and Second chapters of Genesis in the Holy Bible."

OFFER GARNER TAX CUT IN SENATE AS DEFICIENCY RIDER

Vote Will Force Republican Hand on Attitude Toward Reduction of Taxes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. (P)—The Democratic proposal for a $335,000,000 tax reduction effective next year is to be offered as an amendment to the $175,000,000 deficiency bill now pending in the senate.

The measure as drawn up by Representative Garner of Texas, ranking Democrat of the house ways and means committee, will be offered by Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri. Republican leaders asserted that a point of order would be made against it on the ground that fiscal measures must originate in the house and on the further ground that this would be general legislation in an appropriation bill.

Some Democrats said that if such a point were made, the senate would be put on record as to whether it wanted a tax reduction at this time.

A charge of insincerity lodged against Democrats by Chairman Green of the ways and means committee, brought on a lively fight in the house in which Representative Garner individually challenged Republican leaders, from Speaker Longworth down, to place themselves on record on the question of immediate tax reduction.

Green said the Democrats had held up their petition for tax reduction to such an extent that it was now impossible to obtain effective action on it. This charge was denied by Representative Garrett, the Democratic floor leader, after which Garner got the floor.

Garner "Calls Bluff"
The Texas quoted Representative Mills at New York, selected to succeed to the post of undersecretary of the treasury, as having said the corporation tax should be reduced now.

Then, walking toward Mills' seat, Garner shouted: "I am going to call your bluff." Mills said he was ready to join the Democrats if the reduction would be limited to corporation taxes only.

"We'll take you up," declared Garner.

"But I won't go with you on your rates," replied Mills.

"Name your rates," shouted Garner, shaking his fist at the Republican.

"But we can't tell what the senate is going to do," retorted Mills.

The Texas then walked toward Representative Tilson of Connecticut, the Republican leader.

Tilson said he was not willing to go along with the Democrats because they would not stick to the corporation tax.

"Well, now I'm going to head-quarters," said Garner, as he turned and faced Speaker Longworth.

A petition to bring the Garner bill before the house is pending. It must be signed by 218 members to become effective and so far, 175 Democrats, one Republican and one Independent have signed.

THREE MEN MINUS FOOD LOST IN ICEBOUND TUG

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Jan. 25. (P)—Three fishing tug Imperal with three fishermen and no food aboard had disappeared off Grand Beach today. It is believed still to be imprisoned in an ice floe two and one half miles wide which broke off and drifted out into the lake.

There has been no communication with the fishermen since Saturday, when three men risked their lives in a trip across the ice to put one day's food supply aboard.

STABLE FRANC NOT IN PROSPECT SOON

PARIS, Jan. 25. (P)—The French government has no intention of stabilizing the Franc at the present time, its immediate desire being merely to maintain it around 25 to the dollar, Premier Poincare today told the finance committee of the chamber of deputies.

The premier explained that recent shipments of bullion to New York were merely in accordance with progressive purchases of dollars and pounds with gold coins bought from the public.

PASTOR WEEPS AND EMBRACES HIS ATTORNEY

Son of D. E. Chipps Leaves Court Room With Tears in Eyes, Unnoticed

JUDGE RAPS FOR ORDER TO PREVENT APPLAUSE

Decision Freeing Norris of Third Felony Charge Out About One Hour

COURTROOM, AUSTIN, Jan. 25. (P)—Dr. J. Frank Norris, fundamentalist Baptist pastor of Ft. Worth, tonight stepped for the third time from a courtroom a free man.

He was acquitted by a jury in Travis county district court for slaying D. E. Chipps, wholesale lumberman whom he slew in his church office on the afternoon of last July 17.

There were tears of joy and also tears of another kind when the brief, simple verdict of not guilty was read in loud tones by the court clerk. The tears of joy were those of Norris and his wife. As soon as the verdict rang in the court room Norris stood by a seat where he was surrounded by his wife, their two sons and a circle of friends. There was a wan smile on his lips but he showed no emotion until his attorney, Marvin Simpson, shook his hand. He embraced Simpson and wept.

"Sorry for Mother"
The other tears were in the eyes of a small-brown-eyed boy who has sat throughout the trial on the side of the state. He is 14-year-old Dexter Chipps, whose father Norris killed. When asked about the verdict tears came to his eyes and he choked up. Later he said: "I'm so sorry for mother. It will hurt her."

The boy was alone of all his family and as the great crowd rushed around Norris to shake the freed man's hand, the lad walked out, virtually unnoticed.

The verdict came after 14 days of argument and testimony which was ended with a heated appeal by William McLean of Ft. Worth, one of the special prosecutors, who said as he pointed his finger at the jury:

"If you send him out to kill again he's your criminal, not mine."

"Call him the pistol-packing person," shouted McLean and these words were ringing in the defendant's ears as the jury filed out.

The great crowd refused to leave the courtroom. The jury went out at 4:40 p. m. Just before 6 p. m. they announced they had reached a verdict, but judge, defendants and lawyers were absent.

The judge and lawyers were quickly located, but it was more than half an hour before Norris could be found. He was finally located in the lobby of his hotel with his body-guard, Fred Holland, former policeman.

Brief Verdict
"I've been out for a walk," said Norris as he came into the room. The jury which had been waiting with the verdict for 45 minutes then came in.

"We the jury find the defendant, J. Frank Norris not guilty as charged," said the verdict.

Two women on the front row applauded lightly. The judge rapped for order.

BRYAN, Tex., Jan. 25. (P)—Six jurors had been selected Tuesday afternoon in trial of Sledge Houston here for slaying of a peace officer, the only juror selected during the afternoon being Allen Cude of Ridge. Sixty veniremen had been called in. Religious and Klan affiliation of veniremen have been the subject of most of the questions asked.

BUSINESS TALKS AT EXCHANGE CLUB

George Embrey, of State Banking Department, as Local Business Men Speak

George C. Embrey of the state banking department, gave a talk on banking at the Exchange club luncheon yesterday. Mr. Embrey was introduced by Benton Fisher, Paris attorney, who had charge of the program at the club with Ben Crites. Mr. Embrey declared that the banking business is a very small part of the business world, contrary to the general opinion that it is the major business.

TO OFFER PEPPER JOHNSON'S JOB

United States Senator Non-Committal; Friends Say Will Not Accept

NEW YORK, Jan. 25. (AP)—George Wharton Pepper, United States senator from Pennsylvania, will be offered the job as active president of the American League to succeed Ben Johnson, the Evening World says today in a special dispatch from Chicago. The club owners, it adds, are willing to go as high as $100,000 in annual salary. Commissioner Landis now receives $85,000 while Johnson's salary, effective until 1935, is $40,000.

A committee of magnates, the World says, will confer with Senator Pepper on the subject.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. (AP)—Advised of reports that he would be offered the American League presidency, Senator Pepper declined today to say what his attitude would be if the offer materialized. Intimate friends of the Pennsylvania senator, however, were of the opinion that he would decline with thanks, since it was his intention, upon retirement from the senate next March, to resume the practice of law with offices in Philadelphia.

LINDSEY TO FIGHT TO BITTER END

Ousted Denver Judge Says He is Victim of 'Infamous Conspiracy'

DENVER, Colo., Jan. 25. (AP)—Judge Ben E. Lindsey, who was ousted from his bench in Denver juvenile court yesterday by a decision of the Colorado supreme court, in a written statement issued last night sees himself as the victim of an "infamous conspiracy." The jurist declared he would "fight to the bitter end," and if denied a rehearing, would take his plea, if possible, to the United States supreme court.

"In the meantime," the statement reads, "I will not pay my salary or any part thereof, to anyone until I have had my day in court."

Judge Lindsey has 15 days to petition for rehearing of the election contest, and during this period he will continue to preside in the juvenile court here. If his application is denied, the holding of the high court becomes final.

Sir James Barrie has done all his writing with his left hand for some years.

does that again," said Judge Hamilton. By this time hands from every direction reached in the direction of Norris, and he was the center of a dense eddy of friends who moved slowly toward him as he moved slowly toward the door.

It was Norris' third acquittal on a criminal charge. He was indicted in 1912 and 1913 on charges of arson and perjury in connection with the burning of his Ft. Worth church and parsonage.

Norris Says 'Vindicated'

Dr. Norris tonight refused to make any statement following his acquittal, and ordered from his room a newspaperman seeking one. Mrs. Norris apparently was near by prostrate. She lay on a bed in Norris' hotel room, while he answered numerous congratulatory telephone calls and received many telegrams.

He will leave for Ft. Worth tomorrow.

Norris was ruffled, he said, because Mrs. Norris had been disturbed. Later J. J. Mickie, public city director for Norris' church, said Norris would speak at the regular prayer meeting Wednesday night at his church.

Norris sent out to newspapermen through Mickie the one word "Vindication!"

"It was vindication in every thing. That was the one word Norris had to send out," Mickie said.

Attorney Isaac D. White of Austin started the argument for the defense this morning. He was followed by District Attorney J. D. Moore of Travis county for the state. Attorney Dayton Moses took up the final argument for Dr. Norris at 11:25 a. m. and spoke until recess at 12:30 p. m.

Charge "Persecution"

The prosecution was charged with "persecuting" Norris, by Mr. White, who compared the spiritual influence of the pastor, Dr. J. Frank Norris, with the life of the man he killed, Dexter E. Chipps.

Defense attorneys, especially Mr. Moses, declared the chief motive inspiring the state's case was the alleged hate harbored by special prosecuting attorneys against Norris.

"Bill McLean hates Dr. Norris with all the intensity that an American citizen can hate another," Moses said.

White charged that Chipps was an interloper in Dr. Norris' office when he was killed there last July 17, and that he should have been shot.

"Dr. Norris had a right to order Chipps out and he had a right to order him out even at the point of a pistol," said White.

Norris appeared to weep frequently during the argument, especially when Moses referred to the pastor's two young sons at his side. Some reference had been made by the prosecution to the sons as "exhibits."

"Gentlemen, is this man to be condemned because in this darkest hour of his life these sons cling to his side?" asked Moses.

District Attorney Moore declared that Norris should have acted the Good Samaritan "to the weaker Chipps and should have reached out his hand and lifted him instead of shooting him down."

Comparing the testimony of L. H. Nutt and Mrs. Roxie Parker, two eye-witnesses, Moore declared that Nutt's testimony was bound to be influenced by his close relationship with his pastor, while Mrs. Parker, who said she saw Chipps retreating with his hands in the air, could have had no ulterior motive.

Senate Advises

United States, which would mean war.

"The policy implied in the arbitration resolution, if acted upon by the president and accepted by the Mexican government, will relax the tension between the two countries, which has become so great as to threaten the continuance of peaceful relations," said Senator Robinson. "There seems to be a long established custom of shrouding diplomatic negotiations in secrecy and mystery. This in itself is calculated to arouse suspicion and to fortify misunderstanding. Nothing could be more helpful than the frank and emphatic proposal from our president that the two governments arrange or attempt to do so, for the arbitration of the disputes which if left unsettled by peaceful means will lead to the quickening of an attitude of hostility on the part of Mexico and the United States toward each other from which the gravest consequences to both may result."

The resolution recognizes the obligation to protect the lives and property of Americans, he pointed out, and suggests arrangements for such protection pending an arbitral decision.

SENATE FOR STATE INHERITANCE TAX

Texas Solons for Fair and Reasonable State Tax as Revenue Source

AUSTIN, Jan. 25. (AP)—Fees collected from students of all State eleemosynary and educational institutions would be placed directly in the State treasury and their expenditure controlled by the legislature in a bill submitted Tuesday by Senator I. D. Fairchild of Lufkin.

Fairchild said he would "like to prevent these institutions from charging such high fees, but as this cannot be done, I regard this as the next best step."

Under the present system, governing bodies of State institutions spend the money derived from fees practically as they choose Fairchild said.

In a flareback to the sharpest fight of the session, the Senate voted endorsement on "fair and reasonable" state inheritance taxes as "just and democratic method of securing revenue."

The resolution was introduced by Tom Love of Dallas who recited a four-hour fight to have the senate refuse to concur in a house resolution asking Texas congressmen to aid in attempting repeal of the national inheritance tax.

Love Tuesday declared he sought passage of the simple resolution because the action of the senate in passing the House concurrent resolution may be regarded by the people as "a stamp of disapproval on inheritance taxes."

Holbrook of Galveston, who fought Love's successful resolution, finally changed his vote from no to aye with the statement that he expects to attempt reconsideration and its eventual defeat.

Ferry Lewis of San Antonio former State senator delivered a brief address. He deplored "newspaper jibes and quips" at legislatures and asked senators to "disregard them."

P. T. A. DISCUSSES JUVENILE WELFARE

Council Plans Greater Attention to Prevention of Delinquency in Future

A talk by Mrs. Stella S. Vand Dyke, officer in charge of the Salvation Army post and probation officer here, followed the business session of the city council of Parent-Teacher associations held Tuesday afternoon at the municipal building, and as a result, the council pledged itself to greater effort toward prevention of juvenile delinquency.

The first step in this matter was made with the request that each ward association appoint an assistant, to aid the district chairman of juvenile protection, Mrs. W. C. McDowell.

Mrs. Vand Dyke made a straightforward talk, telling numerous instances, which have come to her attention in the discharge of her duties. The matter of compulsory school attendance was taken up in this connection also.

Fourteen representatives from the six associations in the city were in attendance, and all agreed that the president should appoint one of the delegates elected by the council to represent the council, rather than elect another delegate for the coming convention to be held at Marshall, March 29-31.

Mrs. Roy Dunagan was named to complete the unexpired term of Mrs. Roy Hodges, resigned, for the post of secretary.

The next regular meeting of the council will be held April 19, at the municipal building.

AND NOW PEACHES TELLS OF CRUELTY

Alleges Husband's Cruel Treatment Began Immediately After Their Marriage

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 25. (AP)—Less than twenty minutes after the opening of the trial, Mrs. Frances (Peaches) Heenan Browning, the second witness of the day, today took the witness stand in the separation suit instituted against her husband, the 51 year old New York realtor, Edward West Browning.

She immediately launched into a self-confident accounting of her first meeting with her husband at a dance of his alleged sponsored sorority, whose Greek letters, she said, stood for "Pretty Little Things."

Mrs. Browning broke down following her recital of alleged cruelties of her husband, which she said began immediately after the marriage. After the recess and half an hour's testimony by George Blakeslee, neurologist, Mrs. Browning continued her story, saying that she was "pinched and scolded," when she declined to obey Browning's commands that she finally had to submit to his every wish.

At the afternoon session, Peaches testified that her husband frequently locked her in her room and then, in response to questions by her attorney, these followed testimony as to intimate relations with her husband. This was interrupted by objection from Browning's attorney, John W. Mack.

Mack protested that certain acts of cruelty about to be testified to were not alleged in the counter-complaint of Mrs. Browning. He was overruled and Mrs. Browning went on to answer, appealed to the judge, "Mr. Judge," she asked "must I tell this before all these people?"

HEARING ON RATES OPENED AT OMAHA

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 25. (AP)—The task of assembling evidence for a reclassification of freight rates for all railroads in Western Trunk Line territory was started before representatives of the Interstate commerce commission here today.

Between 300 and 400 rate experts from all sections of the country were in attendance at the opening session of the hearing, which will last about ten days. The Omaha hearing is to be devoted entirely for presentation of the railroads' arguments for a general upward revision freight rates. At the end of the hearing another will be announced to receive arguments of those factions seeking lower freight rates.

The hearings are provided for by the Hoot-Smith law, which seeks to determine if present railroad freight rates are discriminatory to agriculture. The Omaha hearing is presided over by Frank McManamy, member of the Interstate commerce commission who is being aided by W. H. Wagner, assistant chief examiner of the commission and Commission Examiners P. C. Paulson and W. J. Koebel.

Jardine Asserts Livestock Market Had Appreciable Improvement in Past Year

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Jan. 25. (AP)—The past year has seen increased production, better quality and increased revenues in the livestock industry, William M. Jardine, secretary of agriculture told the members of the National Livestock Association in annual convention here today.

"The total quantity of beef produced from cattle slaughtered under federal inspection in the ten months, February to November, 1926, exceeded that produced in the corresponding months of 1925 by 314,000 pounds," the secretary said. This is an increase of 8 per cent, and exceeds the five year average, 1921-1925, by 522,000 pounds, or 14 per cent.

The market prices improved toward the end of the year, Secretary Jardine said, and the demand for lightweight steers, both for slaughter and feeding purposes "was remarkable." The tendency, he said, is toward lighter, or younger animals, thus giving the stock raiser a more frequent turnover. The tendency toward curbing the slaughter of calves is increasing. The annual slaughter was placed under 12,200,000 head and cannot exceed this number without depleting stock.

Predicting a good consumptive demand for 1927, the secretary said that while industrial prosperity may not be maintained "there is no expectation of enforced unemployment or of wage reductions."

He declared the imports of beef "are insignificant, although they have increased in recent months." Most of them come from Canada. He added, "This is due to economic conditions in Great Britain and Europe."

Urging the cattlemen to improve their breeding stock, Secretary Jardine said a study had disclosed the fact that improved livestock has a "40 per cent greater utility value" than common animals.

Distribution of livestock market news, the speaker said, has broadened until the service now covers

A Woman's Way

"I tried for four months to get my wife to try MAYER'S which I know had helped a friend of mine who also suffered from stomach trouble. She insisted her case was different. I finally had to bribe her with a new dress. The first dose produced remarkable results, cleaning up her complexion and restoring her appetite. She can now eat things she hadn't been able to for many years." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allows the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. LEGION BODIES TO HAVE JOINT MEET

Post and Auxiliary Plan Special Meeting With Program Next Tuesday

Winfield F. Brown post No. 30 of the American Legion at its regular meeting, planned a called session for next Tuesday evening, and extended an invitation to the auxiliary to make it a joint session of the two bodies.

Plans for the coming membership campaign were discussed from many angles; but as some of the chairmen and officers were unable to attend, due to illness or absence from the city, no definite time was set for the actual start. A number of members, however, are working quietly toward enrolling all members on the list for 1926, and are seeking to enlist other eligible ex-service men as members. They hope to have a creditable showing by the time the drive actually begins.

The meeting Tuesday night will be informal in nature, and as several of the details are yet to be settled, no definite program can be announced. However, a real entertainment and sociable gathering will be held, whatever the features of the evening prove to be, and the post wants to have a good attendance of local members and those from nearby posts and towns.

Announcement was made that the dinner to be held in Texarkana on the evening of Friday, February 18, honoring the national president and secretary of the auxiliary, Mrs. Adaline Macauley and Mrs. Lucy Boyd, will be for both auxiliary members and legionnaires, the reservations being $1.25 each. Legionnaires are urged to attend the meeting with their ladies, on this date.

Plans were discussed in a general way for the divisional convention to be held here Sunday, March 20, for which the program has already been announced.

BAPTISTS ASK TWO MILLIONS

One Half of Sum Asked By Middle of March for Paying Indebtedness

WACO, Jan. 25 (P)—The 448,000 Baptists in Texas have set before themselves the task of raising $1,000,000 in cash by March 15 and an additional million dollars by September 1, to be used toward lifting the indebtedness of the denomination's ten colleges, six hospitals, state paper, state board and care for their share of the indebtedness of the Southern Baptists boards.

Although the first check came from Mr. and Mrs. Joe F. Etter Sherman, Jan. 5, and was for $10,000, the campaign really got under way January 15.

A large number of leaders of the church are engaged in the campaign and are serving without pay. H. L. Kokernot of San Antonio head a commission of 509, acting as general chairman, and also as a member of the executive committee of twelve and the budget committee of five. Dr. George Truett, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Dallas, has cancelled all other engagements, including a trip to China in order to be free to serve as general director of the campaign. State organization is under the direction of L. R. Scarborough of Southwestern Theological Seminary, Fort Worth.

The state has been divided into eighteen districts, each with an organizer assisted by organizers for the Sunday schools, Young Peoples societies and women's organizations. No quotas have been assigned, but an honor standard will be raised.

DALLAS MAN HURT AS TRUCK IS OVERTURNED

J. L. Crabtree, of the Stearns Radiator company of Dallas, was painfully injured, when the truck driven by him overturned on the highway, five miles south of Paris, late yesterday afternoon. In attempting to pull to one side of the road for a passing car the truck skidded off the pavement. Crabtree sustained a severe cut over the right eye, and one arm was badly lacerated. The injured man was brought to Paris and his wounds were dressed by Dr. E. Goodby, and he was later put aboard the Red Ball bus for Dallas. The truck was considerably damaged.

Methodist Men Arrange Contest

"A great forward movement in the men's classes at the First Methodist church will start next Sunday," says the pastor, Rev. F. M. Richardson. "The movement will include both the Brotherhood and the Builders classes."

"The men of the church are divided into two teams, the Razorbacks, headed by Carl McWhorter, John James, Fred Russell, and Howard DeShong. The Mossbacks are headed by Jess DeShong, Joe Hogan, R. T. Hunt Jr., and A. A. Clark Jr."

"This contest will last through the month of March, and at the conclusion of it, some outstanding social feature will be arranged. The contest is arranged so as to give credit, both for attendance and new members."

"Both of these classes have splendid teachers, good officers, and fine quarters, and this campaign ought to mean much to both."

BUSINESS WOMEN NAME COMMITTEES

Two New Members Bring Total Roster to Sixty-Four at Tuesday Meeting

Personnel of committees appointed at an executive meeting was announced Tuesday evening at the regular bi-weekly meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club of Paris, at the Gibraltar hotel, for dinner.

A large attendance marked the meeting, several guests present including Mrs. H. Buford Rodgers, who made a talk on a recent trip through Japan; Miss Marguerita Fender, soloist, and Mrs. J. I. Norman, her accompanist, Miss Eleanor Webster, and Mrs. Kelton of Denver, Colo.

Applause greeted the announcement by the president, Miss Cleone Worthing, that charter membership of the club, which was perfected at the previous meeting, numbered 62, as large as the total membership of some of the largest business women's organizations in the state. Miss Mary Jane Muse, registered nurse, and Mrs. Fannie C. Williams, claim clerk for the Texas and Pacific road were unanimously elected to membership.

Roll call was answered by each member who in turn, named her firm or business and the position she fills.

The president said that the "ice breakers" or acquaintance committee, would have charge of the program at the next meeting on February 8.

Two lovely solos, Arthur Penn's "The Lamp of Hour" and "My Hour" by Gordon Johnson, were given by Miss Fender, with Mrs. Norman at the piano.

Mrs. Rodgers spoke in a most entertaining manner on her travels in the Orient, particularly in Japan, touching upon a myriad topics that had caught her attention during her trip.

Her description of some of the most striking temples was vivid and she told in detail of the feasts and other festivals connected with the worship of the ever serene Buddha.

She closed with a discussion of the young women of Japan, their dress, their place in the home, their diversions, and the position they occupy in relation to the social structure of the nation.

THE LATIN AMERICAN SITUATION
WHETHER or not Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut who, while he was a Yale professor wrote a book titled "The Monroe Doctrine—An Obsolete Shibboleth" and then repudiated his opposition to the time-honored policy, was justified in so doing, the senator has struck the nail on the head in the Latin-American tangle. When Senator Borah had finished denouncing our intervention in Nicaragua, Senator Bingham arose and said that since the Monroe Doctrine kept European nations from protecting the lives and property of their nationals in Nicaragua, it put us under obligation to do so. This, in effect, seems to be the backbone of President Coolidge's defense of our action in the Central American country.

Wherever lives of foreigners are jeopardized in Latin America, the Monroe Doctrine does place responsibility for their protection on the United States, inasmuch as that doctrine would not let Europeans land armed forces in South American countries. The policy of Monroe was declared in 1823 when young, struggling America was menaced by the definite threat of exploitation of Europeans in South America. It was an adroit stroke and served for all time to tell the world that if America had no aggrandizing eye to the South, it would never tolerate others to set up their forms of their governments there. Bingham in his book several years ago argued that therefore repeal of the doctrine might relieve us from the police responsibilities assumed by us in adherence to it without fear of European aggression in Latin America. In theory, he may have been right; but maturer judgment has convinced him of the impracticability of abandoning this doctrine of Monroe, and he has so declared himself. He is not to be condemned for this reversal in the campaign for senator. He was nearly right in two premises set forth in the book, which has served as one of the most enlightening discussions of Latin American affairs with relation to the United States. It is a convincing recital of distrust of our motives in South America, the seat of eternal misunderstanding. It also is an argument that intervention in their affairs under our own responsibility in the Monroe Doctrine may be resented by the countries to the south.

But because Bingham first believed that the doctrine should be abandoned as a fount of trouble and now sees the fallacy of abandoning it, this is not just cause for criticizing him. We have the doctrine and it entails upon us responsibility in South America. And we may be justified at any time in intervention for protection of lives and property of foreigners. We must guarantee this or abandon the doctrine.

NEWS dispatch emanates from Houston that a flock—or herd—of migrating bullfrogs blocked traffic near that city the other night. Dallas boosters will surely not overlook this development in drawing comparisons between the rival cities in the race for commercial supremacy. The race may be close enough for such escapades to count in the balance, and if they will, we must admit that the South Texas situation has become a trifle discouraging because of this bull frog invasion, despite the fact Dallas is possibly preparing for her biennial cricket carnival. And too, we haven't forgotten when that civit cat made a no man's land out of Main street.

IT'S the ability to put over the last telling jab that wins many a fight—when a failure seems apparent. Wouldn't it be a thrilling yarn if we just finished up this oil leasing deal—and got a well for Northeast Texas? No fighter ever won a scrap standing outside the ring.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

GRADE CROSSINGS UNAVOIDABLE

Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

THE inevitable public reaction to such tragedies as that which occurred Saturday at Round Rock, which carried sudden death to ten members of the Baylor University basketball squad, is that something ought to be done to assure against repetition. Probably some such idea was in the minds of the two legislators who announced in Austin Saturday that they would introduce a bill to eliminate grade crossings in Texas. The bill, according to announcement of its proposers, would require railroads in the state to separate the grade of track and highway at all intersections within the state.

The disaster at Round Rock was of a nature to awaken public horror to a surprising degree. No only was it, in point of number of victims, the severest grade crossing accident on record in the state, but the victims were all young men, picked men, as it were, from the student body of a great university, a student body in which a great many Texas families are interested by reason of kinship or friendship. But these facts, however much they may heighten the sense of regret with which the public receives the news of the accident, are not adequate reason for laying upon the railroads of the state the entire responsibility for such accidents and for taxing them with the insupportable cost of guaranteeing against such accidents in the future through the expedient of doing away with all grade crossings.

It is desirable, of course, to remove all possibility of accident. But to require railroads to install grade separations wherever a public road intersects their right-of-way would be to put upon the roads a cost which in this state probably would exceed the entire value of the property of all the railroads in the state. In Fort Worth today city authorities are concerned about the installation of a separate grade crossing on one important street. The cost of that installation is estimated not to fall below $150,000. Multiply that figure several thousand times and one would have the cost of entire elimination of the grade crossing in Texas.

To put such a cost upon the railroads without adequate provision for reimbursement, even if the state government had the power to do so, would be to force them into bankruptcy. It is more than doubtful whether the state has such a power. On the other hand, taxpayers would be justified in protesting strongly against undertaking such a mammoth work with state funds.

The grade crossing problem is a tremendous one, chiefly because of two factors. Of these the demands upon railroad trains for speed is the less contributory. By far the most important factor in the problem is the persistent neglect of drivers of motor vehicles to employ caution in approaching a grade crossing. Carelessness is a national trait of Americans, so deeply seated that it appears to be ineradicable. And so long as it remains we shall be subject to such dreadful shocks as that produced by the deplorable accident at Round Rock Saturday.

Classics vs. Sex

By Olive Roberts Barton

PUBLISHERS acknowledge that there would be little or no sale of classic literature if they did not use every trick known to the trade to promote their sales.

The word "classic" is anathema to many people. Almost the worst thing possible for the success of any book past or present is to let it be known that it is a classic.

They say that daughter, mother and grandmother, to say nothing of the male side of the family, are feeding avidly on the sex novel. There is a difference between a sex novel and the prurient sex novel. As far as that goes, all love stories are sex stories. It is a matter of degree. It is not the erotic sex novel, however, that is robbing the classic. It is the popular novels of today that cover a wide range of problems and people. They are clever and brilliant! And many of them are—classics! There are more writers and better writers than there ever were.

Writers seek the pulse of their public. If there are not more "solid" books, it is because public taste has changed, not the writers. No one writes a book like "Henry Esmond" or "Daniel Deronda" now because nobody would read them.

But he who misses the good old books misses much. There is not only stamina and strength in our patient soldierly rows of golden-lettered leather-backed "sets" that are so ornamental in our bookcases, but all sorts of delightful things we grope for and miss in the modern subtle aphorisms of Molnar and Arlen.

At ten or twelve years of age I was made to read "David Copperfield," "The Deserted Village," "Paul and Virginia" and so forth when I wanted to read the Elsie books. I didn't understand half the words then.

It took me twenty years to learn gratitude to the wise parent who commanded it.

OUT OUR WAY

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—What a lovely target Capitol Hill is for a mad notes!

And yet, how totally neglected! Senators and congressmen seem to be immune from that sort of thing. Anyway, none of them will admit receiving anything sweeter than an occasional letter of thanks from a constituent. Senator Henrik Shipstead of Minnesota is the handsomest man in Congress. If the girls wrote to anyone, it would be Henrik. And he goes along, year in and year out, totally ignored by the mushy element, despite the fact that he is a better movie type than many favorite stars.

The secretary to the best-looking man in Congress today was secretary to the homeliest man in congress 25 years ago. The secretary is Henry T. Ronning and the homeliest congressman was Congressman Frank M. Eddy of Glenwood. Shipstead, Eddy and Ronning all come from Glenwood. Eddy, who is still living, made no attempt to dodge the distinction. In fact, he gloried in it. He was even homelier than Shipstead is good-looking. "How homely was Eddy, any way?" one demands of Ronning. "Haw-haw-haw!" roars Ronning as if words failed him. One hears that no one has since equaled Eddy's total lack of beauty.

Among Eddy's successors have been Andrew J. Volstead and the Rev. O. J. Kvale, incumbent. It should be pointed out here, in case the chance never again arises, that you don't pronounce Kvale's name like "kale," the vegetable, with a "v" in it. The correct pronunciation is "Kwawley," as per the Norwegian, where one hears it.

NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Celebrities have their own sweet ways. Many visitors to New York expect to find the "news-makers" of the day in the noted dining places, but they usually are disappointed. Celebrities, for the most part, choose little out-of-the-way places for their dinners.

Thus, recently in a small low-ceilinged restaurant off Broadway I counted five men and women whose names were in the newspapers that day.

Federal Judge Julian Mack, who, among other things, presided at the Daugherty trial recently, is known as a gourmet. He markets for his home, carrying baskets of fresh vegetables and meat cuts. In the restaurants he frequents, the waiter known and fear him. When he goes to Europe he invariably goes on one favorite liner because he finds its cuisine just to his liking.

Certain other celebrities have their idiosyncracies, too. Thus Vincent Lopez, the rising young jazzbandster, has his apartments atop his Casa Lopez and when his night's or morning's work is through has merely to run upstairs. Because so little sunlight is enjoyed by such all night performers, his bathroom is equipped with an Alpine ray machine where he can bask in sunlight such as is enjoyed at a certain altitude in the Alps.

Mme. Jeritta, I am told, spends odd moments in her back-lax dressing room sewing. The costume she wears in one of the season's Metropolitan successes was designed and sewed by herself.

Gatti-Casazza, the Metropolitan orchestra leader, was educated to be an engineer but took to playing a clarinet in his room. Becoming

Waking Up To Need Of Perfect Bodies

In the Children's Booth at the last International Live Stock Show three youngsters were chosen as the healthiest farm children in the country. A fourteen-year-old girl a fifteen-year-old boy and a sixteen-year-old girl were the proud winners of the contest.

The plan was to select a boy and a girl, but the two girls tied in the test, each being considered 98.6 per cent perfect. On this account both girls were given honors. All the winners agreed that good food, plenty of sleep, and old-fashioned farm work form a healthy trinity. As one girl put it, "Lots of fruit, vegetables, milk, cereal and very little meats, are the secrets of good health." The others agreed to this prescription.

The younger girl is a blonde, 5 feet 4 inches tall, weighing 120 pounds, the second girl, a brunette with curly hair, is 5 feet 6 inches tall and weighs 133 pounds. The boy is 5 feet 8 inches tall, weighing 143 pounds. He says he eats "three square meals every day."

I am delighted that these farm children were found to be such perfect specimens of youth. The reason, to be frank about it, is because too many country children are permitted to grow up without proper attention to their physical needs. When I learn that three youngsters from the farm are as perfect as these, I know more attention is being given to the importance of the child crop. That makes me happy.

No matter what perfect sheep, or cows, or horses, or chickens, or apples, or corn, may be found in the country, we cannot be happy unless the children, too, are perfect. Unfortunately, the country schools are not equipped with facilities to encourage physical perfection. It is important that they should be.

Contests like this one will awaken interest in the physical development of the children. They will emphasize the importance of posture, good teeth, deep breathing and right eating.

The out-door life of the farm the big houses and good ventilation, the abundance of fruit and vegetables, the quantities of milk and butter, the eggs and fresh meat—all these are the elements for combination in health-giving proportions. But without some simple directions and supervision, there may be a failure of proper use of these blessings.

In preparing for such contests there will be preliminary tests and, before these are given, there is much preliminary work. Setting up exercises, breathing exercises, running and jumping, stretching and turning—all these are used, not as a substitute for the muscular activities of real work, but to prepare for more vigorous and effective work in the house or fields.

Every child should be taught the importance of a clear skin, a clean mouth, straight shoulders, right posture and correct eating. Contests like the one just held will excite interest in perfect bodies. In consequence, health and long life will be promoted.

SEER AND WURST IN STRESEMANN CARTOON

GENEVA.—The traditional German combination of beer, frankfurters and rye bread is personified for League of Nations hangers-on by Gustav Stresemann, the German foreign minister. The only Bavarian bar in Geneva has hung up a caricature of the German statesman seated at a beer table smoking a black cigar in his famous cigar holder, and with a plate of wurst, thick sauerkraut and a stein of Pilsener before him.

Dr. Stresemann seeks out this bar about midnight when conferences are over. Though invariably surrounded by a horde of French and German newspapermen, it is a standing rule that political discussions must be drowned in foaming beer.

FEW AMERICAN ACTRESSES INFLUENCE ENGLISH STAGE

NEW YORK (AP).—If the British stage is being "Americanized" by American plays and playwrights, American actresses, at least, have little hand in it.

Of six of the best known American women on the New York stage, not one has ever played in England.

English actresses, it is believed here, have too strong a "strangle hold on their audiences" to leave much room for newcomers. In England, explained Lynn Fontanne an English actress "adopted" by New York, an actress can "get by" on her reputation, whereas in this country every night is a test case.

The American audience, she says is less demonstrative than the British, but the American stage is more willing to try experiments new people and new plays.

But the critics she says, "Over there they condone a failure, but in New York they gurgie with ghoulish glee and joy over a 'flop.' She didn't have a chance," they say in London. But here when an actress appears in a poor play they say, "Wasn't she awful?"

That isn't a song of regret—it is a slogan that recommends itself for 1927. "Back to the mines," those tasks and daily labors that bring with them a rich harvest of success and financial return—"back to the mines," when those mines are the sum of careful saving. It is then that going back means going wisely ahead.

TELLS HOW FORD KEPT STOCK OFF STOCK EXCHANGE

Secretary to Dodge Says Time-ly Newspaper Interview Turned Trick

DETROIT, Jan. 25. (P)—How Ford Motor company stock was nearly listed on the stock exchange, and how Henry Ford prevented this with a timely newspaper interview, was related at the $30,000,000 tax trial.

A deposition of A. L. McMeans, former secretary to John F. and Horace E. Dodge, said that S. K. Rothschild, who held an option on the 2,000 Dodge shares in 1917, declared he was associated with a New York group who planned to organize a holding company and sell stock. He relinquished the option when he said his associates lost interest because of newspaper articles quoting Henry Ford as planning to turn his plant over to the government.

The option was renewed in 1919, being made to E. T. Berger, an associate of Rothschild, but was again surrendered, this time on payment of $675,000 by Stewart Webb, representative of Ford, in paying out minority stock. It is on this sale that the present suit hinges. The government contends the stock as of March 1, 1913, was valued too high for the computation of taxable profits, and claims an additional $30,000,000.

McMeans deposed that the Dodge brothers were willing to sell because they were on bad terms with Ford, and because they saw an opportunity to make a large sum of money. They had previously legally compelled Ford to disburse dividends.

BLOSSOM, Jan. 24.—Miss Virginia Souder and Shorty Bardwell were in Paris Saturday.

Vesta Rush of Paris was in Blossom Saturday.

Mrs. G. H. Montgomery and daughter, Helen went to Paris Saturday for Miss Helen's music lesson.

J. G. Kackley has returned from a business trip to east Texas.

Mrs. J. W. Humphrey and Mrs. Pete Maddux are recovering from influenza.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lowrence of Clarksville have returned home.

Mrs. S. S. Griffin of Paris was the guest of her sister here Sunday.

Mrs. Fancett Griffin of Paris was the guest of her parents Sunday.

Misses Evelyn and Vivian Coursey of Paris were guests of Miss Minnie Watson Sunday.

A. P. Black of Blossom and F. G. Johnson of Paris returned Saturday from Dallas.

Rev. M. A. Stout did not fill his appointment at Sylvan Sunday on account of the rain.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker Hayes and baby of Paris were guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Blinn Sunday.

Mrs. Rufus Burleson and baby of Dallas have arrived in Blossom for a visit with Mrs. Burleson's parents.

Miss Dorothy Hayes returned to Clarksville Sunday after a brief visit with her sister.

Paul Crawford of Dallas was in Blossom Sunday.

Miss Dorothy Nash of Paris spent the week-end with Miss Tommie Griffin east of town.

Mrs. C. P. King and son John Dempsey were guests of Mrs. King's parents in Paris Sunday.

Virgil Griffin of Clarksville was in Blossom Sunday.

Mrs. Wayne Williams and children were guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Williams of Paris Sunday.

Mrs. Helen Williams spent Saturday night in Paris guest of Mrs. Charley Pettus.

Joe Griffin, son of Mrs. Ed Griffin who lives east of town was bitten by a dog last week and the dog was thought to have hydrophobia and the boy was taken to Paris for serum treatment.

Mrs. Joe Fryar has a letter from her aunt, Miss Paye Lane of Marshall, stating that she would sail from New York this week on a tour to the Holy Land and Europe.

Mrs. Robert Black, president of the Ladies Bible class, announces that the meeting will be postponed until the first of March, owing to the inclement weather and illness of members.

E. O. Johnson was in Paris Monday.

The Kill Kare Klub was delightfully entertained Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. J. W. Abels. Besides the members guests included Mesdames J. W. Patton, Hammond Abels, Henry Ragsdale and Miss Imogene Sanders. The resignation of Mrs. George Bradford was accepted with much regret, and Mrs. Henry Ragsdale was received as a member. After the games a salad course was served. Mrs. F. A. Wemple and Mrs. C. P. King tied for high score. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Robert Black.

The Baptist W. M. U. met Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Herman Scudder. An interesting lesson on "Prayer" was directed by Mrs. Hugh McClung. Next Monday a social will be held in the home of Mrs. Louise Sharpe and all members are urged to be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Winsett of Cooper were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Rush.

Regular Sunday school services were held here at the respective churches with good attendance considering the inclement weather. Preaching service was held at the Presbyterian church conducted by Rev. Mr. Webb of Commerce. The Epworth League met at the regular hour Sunday evening in Bible study with Harmon Barnett as leader. The meeting proved very interesting with an attendance of twenty-six.

Services were also held both Sunday morning and evening at the Nazarene church conducted by the pastor Rev. Sam Bozarth.

Rev. M. A. Stout announces services next Sunday at the Methodist church, both morning and evening with special music at both services.

Her Ford Acorn Is Forest Now

Of the fortunate few who invested acorns in the first Ford motor company and saw them grow into forests, Mrs. Rosetta Haus was the only woman. She loaned her brother, James Couzens, now U. S. senator, $100 to gamble on flippers when they were in their infancy. Ford refused to place her name on his stock books, but Couzens gave her a share of his own stock, and eventually she received $350,000. Mrs. Haus, pictured above with her adopted daughter, Helen Elizabeth, is among those fighting U. S. tax claims on their Ford profits in a hearing now under way at Detroit.

Chapter 117

Under the grimly watchful but sympathetic eyes of four policemen and a woman police officer, Faith took Cherry into her arms and kissed her, then began gently to remove the girl's hat and coat while her eyes devoured the beloved little face that had changed so tragically since Thanksgiving.

Faith knew instantly that there would be no "scene." Cherry had done her weeping and her self-castigation in the utter loneliness of a prison cell. The Cherry who had come to see her mother for the last time was a Cherry whom her mother would hardly have recognized, if her dead eyes could have opened to exchange with her best beloved child that look of farewell.

"Will you let me see her now, Faith," before the service begins," Faith nodded her throat too tight with tears to permit her to say. The two sisters, their hands tightly locked together, passed from the living room, through the shabby old dining room, into the narrow little hall and on into the bedroom where Mrs. Lane lay in her coffin.

They were followed to the very door of the death chamber by the officers of the law, their shoes squeaking in the funeral hush that hung over the whole house. Faith had an almost uncontrollable desire to close the door in their faces, to insist upon Cherry's right to see her mother alone. But a glance at Cherry's still, pale face told her that the prisoner was unaware of surveillance.

Jim Lane rose from his chair by his wife's coffin and without a word put his arms about his daughter.

Cherry returned his kiss, then, with her small tight mouth working pitifully, she stepped softly to the coffin and looked upon her mother's face, Jim Lane and Faith turned their backs upon her, and the four policemen, grouped in the doorway, followed their example their heavy, grim faces flushed with embarrassment.

But if they had all been looking they would have seen nothing but a small, rigid figure, standing above a coffin. They could not have seen that Cherry's small hands seemed to be bursting through the thin, satin-sleeved skin. They could not have heard the message which she whispered to that serene, still face which was so ennobled and beautified in death. A small army of reporters and feature writers would have given almost anything they possessed to hear that broken, childlike whisper, but no one, not even Faith knew what the "accused murderer" whispered to the mother who had been killed by the news of her daughter's indictment.

"I didn't do it, Muggsy, I've been a bad girl, Muggsy, but I didn't kill Mr. Cluny. Oh, Muggsy, Muggsy I loved you and I need you now and you've gone away."

Two tears fell from her wide golden eyes to the still face on the satin pillow of the coffin. But when Cherry at last turned away to face her family and the officers of the law, her eyes were dry again her head held high and proud.

"I want to go back now, Faith," she said clearly, and with scarcely a tremor of her voice.

YOUR INCOME TAX

No. 8

Under the revenue act of 1926 the maximum amount which may be claimed as earned income, to which a credit of 25 per cent applies, is increased from $10,000 to $20,000. To claim this credit on the tax due on net income in excess of $5,000, the income must actually be earned as "wages, salaries, professional fees, and other amounts received as compensation for personal services."

In computing the earned income credit, the surtax, which applies to incomes in excess of $10,000, is taken into consideration for the first time under the revenue act of 1926. The tax on earned net income of $20,000 is computed in the case of a married man without dependents as follows:

Net income $20,000.00
Less personal exemption 3,500.00
Balance taxable 16,500.00

1 1/2 per cent tax on first $4,000 60.00
3 per cent on second $4,000 120.00
5 per cent on remaining $8,500 425.00
Surtax on net income of $20,000 220.00

Total normal and surtax $25.00
Less 25 per cent of $25, earned income credit 206.25

Balance of tax payable 618.75
The surtax rates apply to net incomes in excess of $10,000. The maximum surtax rate is now reduced to 20 per cent, which applies to net incomes in excess of $100,000. Instead of a maximum rate of 40 per cent on net incomes in excess of $500,000, as was provided by the revenue act of 1924.

The Home Garden

Helps Reduce the High Cost of Living

Plan The Vegetable Garden

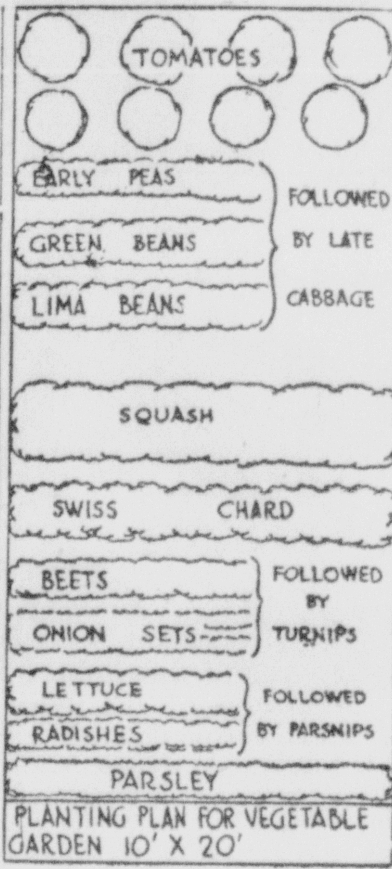

Despite frequent good advice by the most successful gardeners, it is safe to say that not one vegetable garden in ten is planned in advance. No other factor in garden making is so badly neglected as the planning of the vegetable garden on paper, putting down in black and white, drawn to scale just what vegetables are to be planted, how great quantities, where they are to grow in the garden with the crops that are to follow those that mature early enough to permit a succession.

Haphazard planting is one of the most frequent causes of poor success and flagging enthusiasm in vegetable growing. A neat garden can be most certainly obtained by following a carefully thought out plan. There is time to figure it all out in the winter weeks when snow is on the ground. There isn't the time to do a real job of planning when you confront the spaded ground with a collection of seed packages in your hand and start putting the seed in as you pick up the packets.

Rotation crops are one of the most important problems and for its proper solution it is necessary to preserve the plan of this year until next spring when the new plan is drawn and it can be easily planned not to plant the same vegetables in the same position two succeeding years.

Draw an outline of the garden space to a definite scale, one-quarter to one-half inch to the foot, depending upon the size of the garden; the smaller the garden the larger the scale. Mark in the various rows of vegetables, studying directions on the seed packets or in the catalogues as to the proper space between rows, writing in the names of the vegetables and the follow crop or companion crop if one is planned.

With the garden plan made, a

PLANTING PLAN FOR VEGETABLE GARDEN 10' X 20'

notebook should be acquired to be hung on a convenient hook in the garage or back porch in which to note down the dates the seeds were planted, time of germination, and the date of the first maturing of the crop. Note also the date of the sowing of follow crops. With this data the gardener knows exactly how to calculate for his vegetables from year to year.

EXPECT LARGE ATTENDANCE AT C. OF C. MEETING

Representatives From Thirty Counties Expected to Be at Jacksonville

LONGVIEW, Jan. 25. —Representatives from about 30 or 35 counties will attend the second regional meeting of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, to be held in Jacksonville January 25 and 26, it is indicated by reports reaching headquarters. Towns as far away as Bryan, Groesville, Jefferson and San Augustine report that they will have delegations on the ground.

Preparations are being made by the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce and other local organizations to care for the crowd and to provide entertainment.

The idea of regional meetings was endorsed by the Agricultural Committee of the East Texas body following the successful meeting of the central division at Jacksonville, featuring an agricultural program.

Carrying out recommendations of the Committee, a number of prominent agricultural authorities will be on the program, including Dr. T. O. Walton, president of A. and M. College, who will discuss present day agricultural conditions as pertaining to East Texas; A. K. Short, who is perhaps known as widely among farmers as any man in Texas, and who will talk on a safe program for East Texas farmers and business men; C. P. Blackwell, noted authority on soils and fertilization, who will talk on rebuilding the soils of East Texas and on the proper use of commercial fertilizers.

California Woman Says Lamar Yams Are Best of All

Among the numerous inquiries that come to the chamber of commerce from distant points are the following, which were received during the past few days:

A lady at Madera, California, states that she has a ranch in that state and desires to grow sweet potatoes. She says, "I was in your city many years ago and I believe the best potatoes I ever ate anywhere were in Paris. Will you ask some of your business men to ship me 100 lbs. of the 'lamar' that grow there. I want to make a hot bed for slips. I think I can find a ready sale for them here as I have never seen a real good sweet potato in California."

A man from Oklahoma writes: "Do you have places in that section that would make a good cow ranch, that is priced worth the money? I want to raise calves and feed them out as baby beef at 2 to 15 months old, and to do this, I must get in the place where I can grow feed to feed them out."

From Tennessee comes an inquiry which is quoted as follows: "We seek immediately to place a shirt factory, employing 50 girls at the outset, with a payroll of $40,000.00 annually. Already a quarter million business is in sight for 1927. Assuming the check-up is mutually satisfactory, please advise tentatively what you would offer such a plant from a financial standpoint."

MARKETS

New York Cotton
NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (P)—Trading in the cotton market was quiet today and fluctuations comparatively narrow. Issuance of the final January notices had rather an unsettling effect during the forenoon and the market later sagged off under comparatively small offerings. Mid-afternoon prices ranged from 13.40 for March and 13.50 for May, active months showing net losses of about 4 to 7 points.

Futures closed easy 5 to 10 lower. Spots steady; middling 13.55.

New Orleans Cotton
NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 25, (P)—The cotton market was moderately active today with price fluctuations narrow. Interest centered in the final liquidation of the January option. Notices for the delivery of between 4,000 and 5,000 bales were issued here during the morning, as a result of the final notices prices eased off although the January position was steady and went out at noon at 13.43. March by noon traded down to 13.41, May to 13.58 and July 13.75. Exports for the day totaled 24,964 bales. Futures closed steady at a net decline of 10 to 11 points.

Fort Worth Livestock
FT. WORTH, Jan. 25, (P)—The missing link in the Tuesday live stock trade at Ft. Worth that would have connected sales up to a nominal trend was the activity of the movement. Then, strength was seen in the she stock and calves.

The stock, although lacking in numbers presented the usual collection of desirable beef cows and values were strong enough to wipe out the decline seen Monday. Beef cows sold up to $6.25; butcher cows $4.50 to $5.25; cutters at $3.75 to $4.00 and canners $3.50 and up.

Yearlings and heifers took a top of $9.25 and bulk sales notched $5.50 to $6.00.

Calves took on a show of strength in the sale of a car of mixed at $8.25. Sizeable bunches of heavy calves made $5.15 and $7.75.

Bulls sold steady within the spread of $4.85 to $5.30.

Hogs were barely steady on sales of three decent loads of butchers at $12.20 to 12.00. The supply included a better grade of cold bloods than usual, these making $10.75 to $11.25. Packing sows and feeder pigs at $11.25 were steady.

Chicago Grain
CHICAGO, Jan. 25, (P)—Aggressive buying on the part of commission houses brought about material advances today in wheat. Enlarged estimates both of European and world import requirements were an outstanding feature. Domestic cash wheat was in demand with premiums at the Gulf of Mexico again firmer.

Cash wheat No. 1 red 131 1-2; No. 2 mixed 140 1-2.

Corn No. 4 mixed 68 1-2; No. 2 yellow 78 1-2 to 80 1-2.

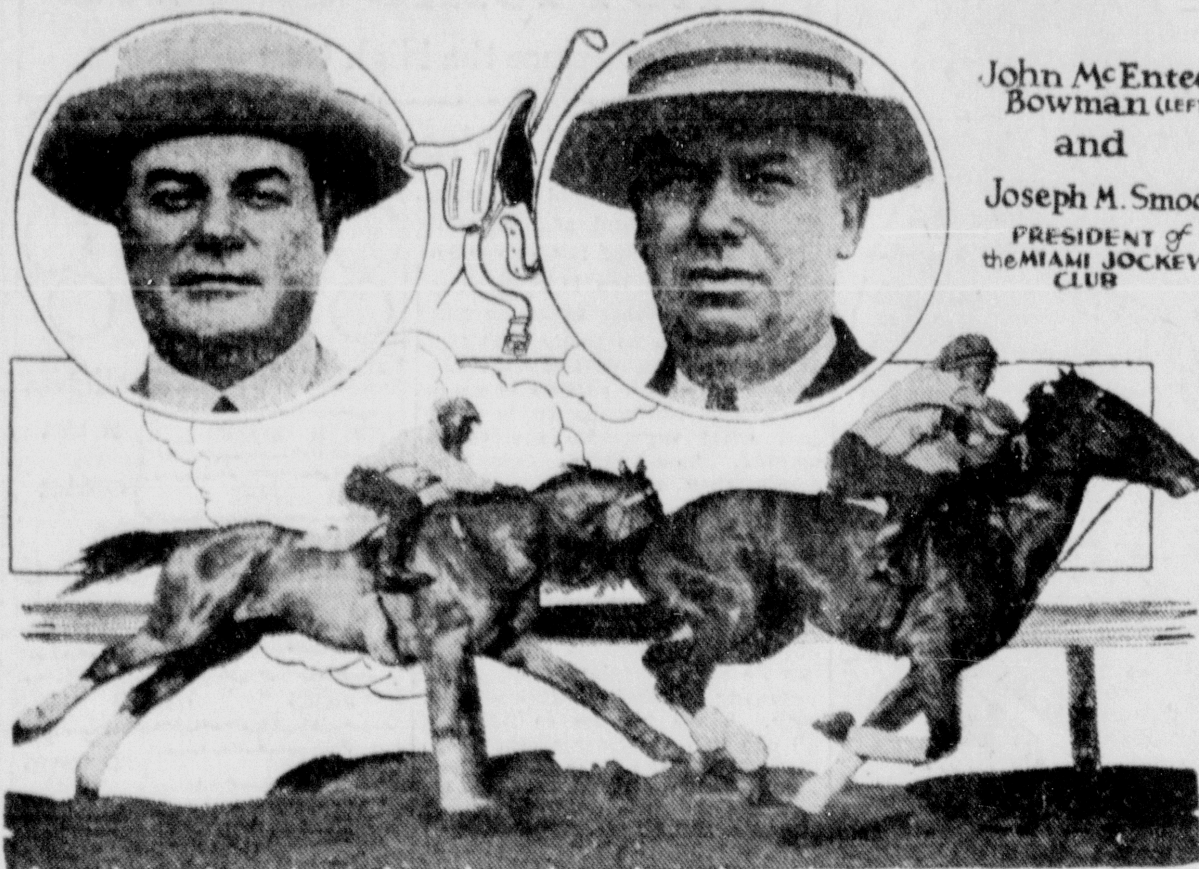

Oats No. 22 white, 61 to 62; No. 2 white, 45 to 47.

Kansas City Top Cows
KANSAS CITY, Jan. 25, (P)—A top price $12.20 for fat steers on the Kansas City live stock market today was the highest price for steers averaging above 1,100 pounds since December, 1925. Twenty five strictly choice medium weight steers, averaging 1,637 pounds sold at $12 a hundred pounds, which was the highest price in the same period for steers averaging above 1,600 pounds.

Miami Prepares for the Runners

Preparations for the biggest racing season the Miami Jockey Club has ever known have been completed by Joseph M. Smoot, head of Florida's great racing plant at Hialeah. So certain is Smoot that no hoodoo can upset his hope that he is opening the season on Jan. 13. Thereafter, for 54 days, Miami will be Mecca for those lovers of horseflesh who "follow the runners."

Among the early arrivals at Hialeah are the stables of Edward B. McLean, Washington publisher and sportsman, and of Edward F. Whitney and Charles E. Moore of New York. Floranada and Cupid's Curse, of the McLean string, and St. Valentine of the Whitney stable, will be among the entries in the big Miami Cup handicap.

John McE. Bowman, New York, and Miami hotel magnate, himself well known in the racing field, has just checked over the "Magic City's" hotel facilities for the big meet. He assures Smoot that the town is ready to accommodate all the racing fans the Hialeah season can lure to Miami.

Coach Wolf Played Part Of Hero When Train Hit Bus, Companion Relates

WACO, Tex., Jan. 25, (P)—"We were laughing and talking about Sam Bass just before the train hit us," said Dave Cheavens, who was sitting on the second seat of the Baylor bus when it was struck by a northbound International-Great Northern train at Round Rock Saturday.

Cheavens, from El Paso, is in bed at his room in the men's dormitory with a sprained back and minor bruise, after arriving in Waco late Saturday afternoon.

"Somebody had mentioned Sam Bass' grave being in the Round Rock Cemetery and we were telling things about him when we all saw the train at the same time. They say it whistled, but I didn't know. None of us heard it. The road crosses the track at right angles there and some box cars and a little house kept us from seeing the train. It was going awfully fast."

"Joe Potter, a freshman, was driving our bus, and he did everything he could to keep from getting hit. He tried to turn and run parallel with the train. We were traveling just about fifteen miles an hour, because the road was slick, and when Potter saw he couldn't save ourselves by running parallel with the train he tried to speed forward and beat it across."

"We missed getting over by about a yard. Abe Kelly shouted to Wier Washam, who was on the back seat, to jump out the window, and he helped Weir out. That was about the only word spoken after we saw the train."

"First thing I knew I was flying through the air. When I hit I was a little bit stunned, but I raised up and looked around in a minute. Chairs were scattered up and down the road for forty yards and there were several boys thrown about that far, too. The bus was completely demolished. Most of them were lying in groups nearby. I recognized Dillow, Dudley, Winchester and Hannah lying in a bunch. Hannah was killed at once, because I picked him up and helped carry him to the station."

"Besides myself, there were only Coach Wolf, Slade, Strickland, John Kane and Weir Washam up and walking. We wandered around a minute or two, kind of knocked-out—except Wolf. He had a cut on his head and some on his face, I think, but he started in immediately doing things for the boys. By that time the station agent had run up and the train was stopping more than 300 yards down the track. It was going so fast it couldn't stop any sooner. I think there were two boys carried that far on the cowcatcher of the engine. By the time we carried the boys into the station the doctors and a lot of people came."

"I never saw anybody as good as Coach Wolf. He was carrying boys in and getting cushions and things for them from the time the train hit us almost. He did all he could for those boys."

"They loaded all of us on the train, after it backed up, except Winchester and Bob Hannah. They put them in an ambulance and carried them to Georgetown, hoping they could save them. I told them I didn't think there was much use trying to save Hannah. I was pretty sure he was dead. We got off at Taylor, and Ivy Foster's father was there—didn't even know Ivy was among all those dead and wounded boys they were taking off the train."

"Weir Washam, Keifer Strickland, Louis Slade and I changed to the Katy at Taylor and came on to Waco. After it happened nobody said anything—we were too dazed to know just what was going on—and I didn't hear any of the crowd that was in the bus say a thing any time afterward, except a word or two about it being pretty awful."

EMPLOYEE OF HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT DIES IN PARIS

The body of W. M. McGee, who died at the Sanitarium of Paris at 8:20 Monday night, was forwarded to Austin yesterday for interment. McGee was in the employ of the state highway department, with Paris as his headquarters. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Mattie E. McGee of Austin, and one brother, Mrs. McKee arrived here Monday shortly before his death and left yesterday to accompany the body to Austin.

THREE AWAIT TRIAL IN LIQUOR CASES AT HUGO

HUGO, Okla., Jan. 25.—Lester Merrett, charged with possession of a still south of Sawyer, waived preliminary hearing in United States commissioner's court here and was held for trial in federal court under $1,000 bail, which he furnished.

W. L. Dismuke, a white man and Dick Ervin, negro, both of Hugo, were taken to the Muskogee federal jail to await trial on a charge of selling liquor. Dismuke's bond was set at $5,000 and the negro's at $500.

HYDROGEN AS BALLOON
GAS REMAINING FAVOR

WASHINGTON, (P)—Helium, one of the youngest members of a large family of gases, but very useful to Uncle Sam because it lifts balloons, is looking to its laurels.
Hydrogen, an older brother, is returning to favor.

Because of its high inflammability, hydrogen left a quality to be desired which helium was subsequently found to possess. Helium, however, was exceedingly rare as apposed to the abundance of its rival, and it was expensive to manufacture.

Recently the experience of a British dirigible visited by lightning during a storm led to the conclusion that hydrogen was more to be respected than disdained. If they could eliminate an additional hazard, that of combustible fumes generated by the gasoline motors, engineers believe they re-establish hydrogen as premier for gas-bag inflation. Development of an engine utilizing crude oil for fuel has monopolized their efforts.

SAWDUST ON MENU

SEATTLE, Wash., (P)—Sawdust is a good breakfast food, but it is chickens, not humans, that relish the dish.

of chemistry in this University of Washington, has developed a process that utilizes sawdust from the lumber mills of the northwest in the manufacture of charcoal.

Pacific coast states use more than 15,000 tons of charcoal annually for poultry and other purposes. Ninety per cent of this product is shipped from the east coast where it is made from hardwoods. A small plant for turning sawdust into charcoal is now operating here.

LUCKY NEBRASKA
GROWS TWO CROPS

Corn is First but Athletes of Varied Attainments Are Among its Citizens

TOPEKA, Kan., Jan. 25. (P)— Agriculture in Kansas has just experienced one of its best years since the price deflation period which followed the World war.

The state board of agriculture estimated today at $469,483,858
the value of all crops and livestock produced on Kansas farms in 1926.
The third largest wheat crop in the state's history represented more than one-third of the total income from farming.

Wealth produced on Kansas farms in 1926 was about $47, 000,000 larger than the average for the last five years.
"Kansas has a most creditable showing," remarked J. C. Mohler, secretary of the board of agriculture, "while the federal department of agriculture places the value of field crops produced in the United States at $1,148,000,000 less than in 1925. The only year since 1920 that showed a greater valuation than this year was 1924, when Kansas had the combination of a large corn crop and a large wheat crop in the same season."

Wheat produced in 1926 totaled 149,983,000 bushels. It has been exceeded only twice—in 1914
when Kansas raised its banner crop of 180,924,000 bushels and in 1924 when the output totaled 153,627, 000 bushels.

Although the average price for wheat this year was 30 cents a bushel, less than in 1925, the large crop brought $76,000,000 more in to the farmers' pockets than last year.

At $1.20 a bushel, the crop this year was worth $179,995,914.
Livestock accounted for $87,209, 000 of the Kansas farm income in 1926, compared with $76,212, 000 last year. Poultry and eggs brought $24,309,000 in 1926 and 1925 while butter rolled up $26, 392,000 for the Kansas farmer compared with $22,857,000 in the previous year.

All classes of farm animals except milk cows decreased in numbers. The ever diminishing ranks of the horse showed a reduction of 37,362 head, while the number of mules decreased by about 11,000.
There are 118,837 horses and 240,
987 mules remaining on Kansas farms.

Corn production for 1926 was estimated at 58,389,932 bushels and valued at $41,010,514 compared with an output of 104,869,915 bushels and a valuation of $74,056,082
last year.

Other crops which contributed more than 10 million dollars each to the state's farm income in 1926
were the following:
Alfalfa hay, $26,230,758; sorghum, $14,839,619; Kafir corn grain, hay and forage, $17,684, $10,440,596.

FORD'S RADIO BEACON
WOULD GUIDE PLANES

DETROIT, (P)—The Henry Ford
Laboratories have developed a radio beacon, the object of which is to guide planes through inclement weather.

A system of signals tells the pilot of the plane whether he is on a true line, or on either side of the course. On a true line of flight, the pilot receives through his headset a long single dash. On one side of the course he receives a letter "N" in the wireless code; on the other side he gets the letter
"A."

In operation the beacon is automatic and gives signals every three seconds. The equipment is so arranged that the signals can be stopped and weather information radioed with the same transmitter.

Experimental tests with the beacon have been successful. The tests showed that at a distance of 30 miles the broadcasting had a reception "width" of three-tenths of a mile. At 100 miles from the station its width was from one to two miles.

Considerable research work remains to be done before the beacon is placed in regular operation. A head set capable of receiving signals on a wave length of 1,034 meters and also over a lower wave length is one of the problems radio experts are working on. A radio receiver that will require "off and on" switches, doing away with the "tuning in" of stations is the ultimate aim. "Portable antenna that can be reeled out when the plane takes the air, and drawn in before it lands, is another development to be worked out.

RATS SWARM IN OLD
LONDON ART DISTRICT

LONDON, (P)—There are fewer artists' models in Chelsea, London's Greenwich Village, but more rats, it has been brought out in the reports dealing with this wealthy borough.

The models are not so numerous as formerly, a good many artists having moved their studios to other parts of the city. The rats have come in because of the housing conditions, declare the authorities.

"The place is swarming with rats, and general conditions are deplorable," says a city surveyor's report. "The tenant showed me three rats which, she had caught the night before, and said that they run over the beds. She also said they caught 'some' rats every night."

VITAMINES ORIGIN
ALMOST ACCIDENT

Dr. McCollum Used White Mice
in His Experiments With Values of Foods

DETROIT, (P)—White mice—two pages of them pictured in a national farm journal several years ago, startled the readers of that strictly agricultural publication.
What, asked the farmers, were pictures of mice, especially white mice, doing in a magazine devoted to livestock?

That was the first public announcement of the discovery by Dr.
E. V. McCollum, now of Johns Hopkins university, of vitamins.

the food elements which have since revolutionized all systems of nutrition. The white mice were to show the farmers what might be accomplished with livestock by correct vitamin feeding. That new knowledge has now been applied to the diet of human beings.

Was Studying Nutrition
Dr. McCollum's theory originated, like many other such great discoveries, through what might almost be termed an accident.

"I was a young fellow, just out of Yale, and was, in 1907, working at the farm experiment station at Madison, Wisconsin," he said. "I was trying to determine relative nutrition values of the then known food elements (proteins, carbohydrates, fats, minerals and oil).

"White mice, used in the experiments, were fed pure protein, carbohydrate, etc. but the animals did not thrive. Neither would a carbohydrate diet suffice, nor a straight diet of any pure element.

Combinations of two, three, or all these elements in pure form also failed."

Tried Different Foods
Dr. McCollum then suspected there must be in food some factor other than those known. So he adopted different tactics and placed the rodents on food-element diets.

"Under this new diet regime
some of the experimental animals flourished and some did not. It was then concluded that no animal could be healthy unless certain foods were included, principally milk and the leaves of vegetables, since these foods seemed to contain most of the vital elements.
An unknown food element was present but it could not be segregated. And it has never been completely isolated. However, the experiments have demonstrated that Vitamin A is present in one

Prize Drove of Turkeys Raised From 10 Breeders

CAMERON, Tex., Jan. 26.—The first gold Elmer Pritchard of Heldenheimer ever possessed, he said, was $75 awarded him recently as a prize for having marketed the largest drove of turkeys in Cameron in the past season.

Pritchard started with ten breeders, and marketed 205, receiving $871, in addition to the $75 prize money, a total of $946, and his net profit was $879. Cost of raising the turkeys was $47, including the price of an incubator and brooder. Seventy-five young turkeys were drowned and 15 stolen, and he has retained 30 breeders to start next season. The eighteen bales of cotton Pritchard raised this year, he reported resulted in a loss, and when sold brought him silver only instead of gold.

Automobile Stolen

A small roadster, owned by C. P. Johnson, was stolen from its parking place in front of his store about 8 o'clock Monday night. Officers said yesterday that the car has not yet been found and that they have no clue as to the identity of the thieves.

W. C. FRANCIS Returns From Austin

W. C. Francis, Secretary-Treasurer of the Home Benefit Association of Paris, which is the largest Local Mutual Aid Association in Northeast Texas, has returned from Austin, where the Convention of the State Association of these Companies was held. Mr. Francis is also Secretary-Treasurer of the State Association, the membership of which is made up of about 40 Local Associations in the various parts of Texas. Some idea of the scope of the service being rendered by the members of the State Association can be had from the following figures: More than one hundred thousand insurance policies upon the lives of Texas people are in these Companies which increase the estate of the policyholders more than one hundred million dollars. This immense amount of life insurance is only costing these people an average of $10.00 per year per thousand. The Local Mutual Aids, representing the State Association, are saving the people of Texas a large amount of money on their insurance. More than $50,000.00 each year is being paid out in death claims by the members of the State Association.

The Convention was held at the Driskill Hotel on January 19th and 20th, just following the inauguration of Governor Moody. This feature caused a large attendance and afforded an added attraction for the trip. Mr. Francis was accompanied to Austin by Frank E. Perkins, former representative, and E. B. Crites of the Home Benefit Association of Paris.

Resigned to Exile, King Enters Farming Business

Ex-King Manuel and Queen Augusta in their apiary at Twickenham

BY MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Correspondent

LONDON, Jan. 25.—"His Most Faithful Majesty, Manuel II, king of Portugal and the Algarves, K. G. C. V. O., and Her Majesty Queen Augusta Victoria, his consort, are about to be registered as proprietors of Fulwell Park, Twickenham, Middlesex."

Behind this simple paragraph in the London Gazette there are volumes of dramatic stuff ready for the hand of the playwright. The first thing that will strike the American reader is that although Manuel was kicked out by his "faithful subjects" the London Gazette still talks of him as if he were a reigning king. Next it shows that Manuel is permanently anchored as a resident of England.

No ex-royalty in all Europe, not even the ex-kaiser, has had a more dramatic career than Manuel. He was born in Lisbon 37 years ago. His father was King Carlos. He himself had no expectation of the throne, as he was the younger of two sons. So, as the Duke of Beja, he was destined for a naval career.

First Tragedy
When he was not yet 19, the first great tragedy in his life occurred. His father, the Crown Prince Luiz, and himself were driving through the streets of Lisbon on the way to a great public function, Feb. 1, 1908. Revolutionary assassins shot and killed the king and Luiz and wounded Manuel in the left arm. The intention was to kill him too and then proclaim a republic. But the plan miscarried and the unfortunate had found himself on the throne of his forefathers. He tried hard to be a good and docile king at the start. To his ministers he said:

"I am without knowledge or experience. I place myself in your hands, counting upon your patriotism and wisdom."

Then happened the second great dramatic event in his life. He met Gaby Deslys, the famous Parisian actress and beauty in August, 1909.

CAR STOLEN FROM PARIS MAN LOCATED
Charles Capell received word Tuesday from the Sheriff's department at Dallas, to the effect that a car, with engine number and license plate corresponding to that of the automobile stolen from him on December 25, was in their hands. Dallas officers had taken charge of the car, and had been making inquiries about its ownership, finally referring to Austin for the registration record.

Mr. Capell says the car answers the description of the one which was stolen from him while he was attending church.

STOLEN AUTO ABANDONED ON EAST PRICE STREET
A coupe stolen from Pat Carter Saturday night was recovered Monday afternoon by members of the sheriff's force. The car was abandoned by thieves on East Price street, where it was later found by officers. A lady living close to where the car was left stated that she heard the car drive up there about 6 o'clock Monday morning. No other clue has been found.

CANDY MANUFACTURERS TO CONVEY IN DALLAS
DALLAS, Jan. 22. (P)—The first annual convention of the Southwestern Wholesale Confectioners' Association, formed a few months ago, will be held in Dallas, Jan. 29. Invitations to more than 800 candy manufacturers, brokers, jobbers and salesmen of Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana have been mailed.

A code of ethics guides the members and its purpose is the cultivation of friendships among business competitors, betterment of general conditions and elimination of unfair practices.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MRS. RUSSELL, SHADY GROVE

BOOK TOWER REARS GREATEST HEIGHT

Is Only One of Group of Buildings Erected by Family of Detroit Brothers

DETROIT, Dec. 25. (P)—When the Book brothers finish their 30-story building on Washington Boulevard next year, they will have added one more steel and concrete monument to what probably is the most ambitious downtown development project ever attempted by one family in an American city.

Washington Boulevard is a short thoroughfare, extending four blocks from busy Michigan avenue to the bright lights and bustle of the hotel and theatre section of Grand Circus Park. Virtually the entire frontage on this boulevard is owned by the three Book brothers—all men in their thirties.

"Thoroughfare To Order"
The Boulevard is wide, with a park running through the middle. At its northerly end stand a hotel, a theatre and office and shop buildings. The remainder of the thoroughfare is almost entirely Book owned, with the exception of a Catholic cathedral.

The first of the brothers' efforts to construct a "thoroughfare to order" was the Book Building. Then came the Book-Cadillac hotel, 25 stories high, erected at the foot of the Boulevard on the site of the historic Cadillac Hotel. In retaining the name "Cadillac," the Book brothers preserved a family name, for the great French adventurer and explorer was an ancestor of the Book family.

Aviation Club A Project
The "1200 Washington Boulevard Building," was next, giving Detroit its first building to carry the name of a street number. The "Book Tower" then arose. It is 35 stories in height, Michigan's tallest building until the new Book Tower is built. The Industrial Bank Building of 15 stories became tenable two months ago.

Still another Book brothers project is the Aviation Town and Country Club building, planned for construction on Washington Boulevard near the new Tower. Ultra-modern accommodations called for in the specifications include a mooring mast atop the building capable of mooring the largest dirigible.

At The Plaza
A First National offering that's as peppy, entertaining and humorous as its title, "Ladies at Play," is the offering at the Plaza Theatre, today and tomorrow.

Doris Kenyon and Lloyd Hughes the featured players, are supported by a fitted-to-the-role cast of players, such as Philo McCollough, Louis Fazenda, Virginia Lee Corbin, Hailam Crooley, John Patrick and Ethel Wales.

The story, adapted from a stage play by Sam Janney, is a hilarious comedy-drama, freely sprinkled with contrasting touches of humor and pathos, drama and surprises.

Anne Harper inherits six million dollars with the proviso that she must marry a man who meets the approval of her two spinster aunts. As this quaint pair, played by Louise Fazenda and Ethel Wales are disgruntled because they did not get part of the six million, they determine to make it hard for Anne to get married. But Anne and her flapper cousin, Betty, play a daring game to force their hands. The result is a peach of a comedy with a thrill punch, a big surprise, suspense and real drama right up to the happy ending.

DEPORT
DEPORT, Jan. 24.—Mrs. Less Lawler spent a few days in Detroit with her sister who is ill.

Miss Mildred Smith of Dimple, Charline Sikes of Talco were weekend guests of Miss Ruby Grant.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Oliver of Dallas spent the week-end with his father and other relatives. Malcolm returned home Sunday and Mrs. Oliver will remain for a longer visit.

Antoine, Ladd and Murphy, have shipped a car of cattle to Ft. Worth.

Arthur M. Fagan of Ft. Worth is here visiting his parents.

Miss Piggy Fagan of Paris spent Saturday and Sunday with her parents.

Mrs. John Webb who has been visiting her parents several days has returned to her home at Paris.

Jerrel Jeffus, a student in Paris high school, came home for the week-end.

Miss Olive Fortenberry, a teacher here, spent the week-end with her parents at Lone Oak.

Miss Lena Shuman, T. T. Jeffus and Cube Shuman were among some of the business visitors in Paris Monday.

The attendance was fairly good at the various churches for Sunday school and the morning service considering the bad weather.

PIMPLES AND BUMPS ARE AWFUL PESTS
Girls and women of the most even dispositions are quick to resent direct attacks on their character, or bold advances. But it is hardly explainable why these same folks tolerate disfiguring pimples, blotches, bumps, "breaking out," etc., which are even worse pests than that.

These skin diseases quit annoying people quickly after first few applications of the wonderful Black and White Ointment, and the regular use of Black and White Skin Soap. The cost is so small none need hesitate because they "can't afford it." The 50c size of the Ointment contains three times as much as the liberal 25c size. All dealers have both Black and White Skin Soap, and Ointment.
